

As seen in

MANHASSET PRESS

July 24, 2008

Cohen & Perfetto Sponsors SI Baseball Clinic for LI Peewees

Cohen & Perfetto LLP, a Manhattan-based boutique real estate law firm, sponsored a June 1 baseball clinic at the Richmond County Bank Ball Park, home of the Staten Island Yankees, for the Kindergarten and first grade boys of the Manhasset Baseball League. Louis Perfetto, managing partner of the firm, turned down offers from the Royals and Dodgers to go to law school. Today he has two children in the Manhasset Baseball League where he is a coach and the commissioner of the First Grade Boys Division. Along with two former New York Yankees, Mickey Rivers and Roy White, Perfetto worked with the young boys. Two former Staten Island Yankees, Jason Faigin and Steve Langan, and several coaches and players from the College of Staten Island baseball team also helped with the instruction. The little leaguers participated in the special baseball clinic where they and their coaches learned the finer points of throwing, catching, hitting and base running on the field where Robinson Cano, Melky Cabrera and Chien-Ming Wang used to play baseball.

Matthew Perfetto shows off his autographed pictures of Mickey and Roy

After the clinic, the more than 350 attendees rubbed elbows with the baseball greats and got autographed photos during a picnic

Louis Perfetto, Roy White, Mickey Rivers and Marshall Cohen.

The first-grade Binghamton Mets are ready to go!

First-grader, Patrick Reilly shows off his spirit for the SI Yankees.

Nina Harloff runs a drill with Kindergarten Jimmy Kelly.

Louis Perfetto and the first grade Muckdogs practice catching and throwing on the field.

Louis Perfetto addresses the crowd.

Former NY Yankee Mickey Rivers prepares the kids to run the big bases.